THE MYSTERY SOLVED.

UDGING from the crowd of customers that have been visiting friend ambieh's store for the past two weeks, we were under the impression that he (as the saying is in commercial parlance) had gone by the board, and in consequence thereof was selling at a great sacrifice, but on further enquiry, we are happy to announce to our readers that such is not the case. He has now on hand a full assortment of Spring, and Summer Dry Goods, and is selling at very low ratey—hence the rush to his store.

Some of the richer and more influential denizens of that moneyed street stopped to chat with him, and to these the Baron introduced his young friend, with the remark that any favor they would do for him would be considered a per sonal favor to himself.

Many of these men's wealth and influence were so great that their very name commanded the involuntary respect of our young friend. He saw his advantage at once.
